The Title IX office is committed to ensuring that all members of the UCLA community, including transgender students, faculty, and staff, can work and learn together in an atmosphere free of harassment. Even after the federal guidance issued on January 22, 2017, UCLA's commitment to non-discrimination has not changed. The UC Office of the President has affirmed its commitment to ensuring that transgender students, faculty, and staff have access to restrooms that align to their gender identities. The UC Nondiscrimination and Affirmative Action policy and our Sexual Violence and Sexual Harassment policy unequivocally describe our position against discrimination on the basis of gender identity. The Title IX office responds to discrimination based on sex, gender, gender identity, gender expression, sex- or gender-stereotyping, and sexual orientation.
